

Council for Health and Human Service Ministries of the United Church of Christ as recognized by Missouri Mid-South Conference

The Missouri Mid-South Conference of the UCC has a rich history of health and human services. As a result, there are a number of health and human service agencies that have their founding roots within UCC and are a part of the Council for Health and Human Service Ministry.

This year the Missouri Mid-South Conference recognized in covenant two new ministries as they applied to become a members of the Council for Health and Human Service Ministries. Isaiah 58 , a ministry in south St. Louis city, that provides food and other services to those in need, and Doorways, a ministry in St. Louis city that provides affordable supportive housing for people living with AIDS, have been recognized. This annual meeting, Isaiah 58 will be active with the youth project and receive one of the offerings.

The Council for Health and Human Services of the United Church of Christ is active in Conference. A collective of the agencies are sponsoring a breakfast at the annual meeting. In the exhibit area are displays from many of the agencies.
